Government Tells of Improvements That Will Make Them Again Attractive.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.-The Department of Agriculture has pubished a report on "Agricultural Conditions in Southern New York." Suggestions are made for certain improvements that it is believed would attract settlers to that section of the State. The report discusses the hill lands in parts of nineteen in value from 25 to 75 per cent. The report says in part:

> to new lands and the rapid development of our cities drew off both men and money from the older communities of the East an naturally drew heaviest on our cheapest and least accessible areas. Then an ex-ploitative system of farming designed to get the most out of the soil at the present without regard to the future completed she decline of farming here. But now the movement westward and > to the cities has been checked and even reversed. People are turning toward the country and the cheap Eastern lands Success in farming in the region will depend on the practice of such a system of farming as will not only give a remunerative ash return at the present, but will build up the fertility of the soil.

> Once good soil conditions are restored the land is well adapted to the keeping of live stock, particularly to sheep raising. to general farming, especially hay and potatoes, and to the growing of certain kinds of fruit. These southern New York lands offe excellent opportunities for intelligen young men with energy. They can be pur chased cheap, they respond readily to the proper treatment, they are near to our great markets and they are certain to in crease in value

TRAIN DESPATCHING BY PHONE. Lehigh Extends the System to Its New York Division.

The management of the Lehigh Valley Railroad announced yesterday that as a result of the success of its experiments with telephone despatching it has increased the use of the system on its lines. The system is now to be installed over the line between New York harbor and Easton, Pa., and between Penn Haven Junction and Wilkesbarre. The instruments already are being installed.

The Lehigh first tried the telephone system of despatching on its Mahanov and Hazleton division and afterward put it into operation between Easter and Penn Haven Junction.

and Penn Haven Junction.

The officials say that communication by the new method has been found to be much less subject to delay and interruptions than by the telegraph. Orders, they say, are less likely to be misinterpreted and the movement of trains is made more smooth and more rapid. Atmospheric conditions too, they say have no effect on the efficacy of the new system.

The use of the telephone in train des patching on the Lehigh is governed by strict rules. Numbers and names of stations are spelled out as well as pro-nounced, and the man at the receiving end has to write out the message as he receives it, as is done when the telegraph is used. By means of a "selector" the despatcher can call any office along the line without calling the others and a gong rings until the call is answered.
